THE BUTCHER'S BLOCK: Benchmark Napa Valley Cabernet Sauvignons

"...and the wine is bottled poetry..." – Robert Louis Stevenson

Just a short 50 miles North of San Francisco is one of the great winegrowing regions of the world: Napa Valley. Producing world class wine and boasting dramatic natural topography, Napa Valley has various mountain ranges, coastal influence, and a spice rack of soil types. While this region is just a brief 45-minute drive from end to end, its impact is benchmark. There are 16 distinct growing regions (AVA's) within this mighty pocket of California and each grows extraordinarily diverse wines.

On this Butcher's Block, we've selected some of our favorite expressions of Cabernet Sauvignon that showcase these distinct AVA's.

We invite you to try something new or revisit a classic!

- 1. Dunn Vineyards, Howell Mountain, Napa Valley, 2019 $725 bottle concentrated black fruit, leather, bordeaux-esque tannins

Fruit on Howell Mountain enjoys great elevation, with the lowest vineyards planted at a towering 1,400 ft above sea level. This positioning, located above the fog line, creates distinctly different wines from those on the valley floor. Howell Mountain enjoys cool nights and mild, sunny days: It was the first mountainous AVA established in the United States!

Randy Dunn, owner/winemaker of Dunn Vineyards, began his career as the first winemaker at Caymus Vineyards. However, he actualized his love of mountain wines when he chose Howell Mountain for his family's winery. Randy was instrumental in the establishment and success of Howell Mountain as an AVA. Among his peers he is regarded as a farmer, but would be happier if others thought of him as a dirt-loving hippie. Today Dunn Vineyards is still run by Randy, his wife, and their children.

- 2. Frog's Leap Winery, Rutherford, Napa Valley, 2020 $188 bottle
red fruit, violets, and bright, fresh acidity

Average temperatures in Rutherford are warmer than the regions to the south as Rutherford is the widest part of Napa Valley and further from the cooling influence of the San Pablo Bay. Its benchlands, however, have deep gravelly soils and the mountains on each side provide much needed protection from the sun. This combination leads to wines with elegance and firm tannins - sometimes referred to as "Rutherford Dust".

John Williams founded Frog's Leap Winery in 1981 after moving to Napa Valley in 1975 to pursue a master's degree in Viticulture & Oenology from UC Davis. John's vision was to make wine with a passion for and a dedication to mindful farming. In 1989, Frog's Leap was the first winery in Napa Valley to be certified organic. Now sharing the wine making role with his son, Rory, the two continue to lead the charge in responsible, hands-off farming.

- 3. Groth, Oakville, Napa Valley, 2021 $208 bottle
black raspberries, anise, and graphite

Located on the valley floor in the heart of Napa Valley, Oakville is bathed in both warm heat during the day and the cool breeze and fog from the bay in the evenings. A Cabernet Sauvignon-centric AVA, Oakville is home to many of the most prestigious vineyards and famed wineries in Napa Valley – including (but not limited to) To Kalon Vineyard and Martha's Vineyard, Harlan, Opus One, and Screaming Eagle.

Dennis Groth, former CEO of Atari (the video game company!), decided to pursue his passion for wine by buying a parcel of land in Oakville in 1981. He and his wife dreamed of growing superb Cabernet Sauvignon that tasted of their beloved wines from Bordeaux. Groth 'Reserve' became the first wine in Napa Valley to receive a 100-point score from Robert Parker in 1985. Today, Groth is still a family-owned winery—their daughter, Suzanne, took over the winery in 1998!

- 4. Shafer, 'One Point Five,' Stag's Leap District, Napa Valley, 2021 $450 bottle powerful and velvety with cassis and unsmoked cigar

Stag's Leap District is barely one mile long, with only half of the region planted to vineyards. With jagged rocks and river sediment formed where the Napa River used to flow, Stag's Leap District was the first growing area in the United States to be established based on soil type! Karen MacNeil, author of The Wine Bible, described wines from Stag's Leap as "textural hedonism."

John Shafer purchased the vineyard that would become Shafer Vineyards in 1972. His son, Doug, joined the operation as winemaker in 1983. Shafer 'One Point Five' - their most famed wine – is a nod to the collaboration between father (John) and son (Doug). In 1984, the family hired Elias Fernandez to be their assistant winemaker. Elias went on to become Shafer's head winemaker and was later crowned 'Winemaker of The Year' by Food & Wine magazine. This year will celebrate Elias' 40th year at Shafer.

- 5. Trefethen, Oak Knoll District, Napa Valley, 2021 $164 bottle plum and black cherry with savory hints of cocoa and black pepper

Situated in the southern area of Napa Valley, the Oak Knoll District is influenced predominantly by the cool breeze from the San Francisco Bay, ideal for a long, balanced growing season. While Cabernet Sauvignon is still king, these conditions also allow other red varieties such as Zinfandel and white wines like Reisling, Chardonnay, and Sauvignon Blanc to thrive.

As trailblazers in establishing the Oak Knoll AVA, Trefethen Winery was founded by the Trefethen family in 1968. The iconic image of a walnut on their label comes from the walnut tree that has been on the property since the winery's inception. From the onset, the Trefethen matriarch warned her husband, "Don't you dare touch that tree!" Now, several decades later, Trefethen is in their third generation of being a family run, sustainable winery.
